

OSU College of Forestry

Forestry & Natural Resources Extension

Now recruiting for two Assistant Professors of Practice –
Urban Forestry Extension Specialist positions

Recruitment Announcement

Oregon State University is hiring two full-time urban forestry positions involving both Teaching and Extension duties at the academic rank of Assistant Professor of Practice. We are seeking individuals who will:

- Teach online courses in urban forestry and arboriculture
- Provide technical and outreach related urban forestry Extension programming throughout Oregon
- Mentor students and engage in scholarship and service to the profession.

Minimum Requirements

Applicants must have:

- A Masters degree in urban forestry, natural resources, environmental science, forestry, horticulture, landscape architecture, or a related field
- Professional experience providing technical urban forestry assistance or educational courses
- Excellent written and oral communications skills

Have an impact teaching

- Join an award-winning faculty in one of the most innovative online education programs in the US,
- Help students advance in their careers through teaching and mentorship in a one-of-a-kind professional certificate program,
- Provide rich and inclusive learning opportunities offered in formal and non-formal education settings throughout Oregon and across the world.

Application Deadline:
November 18, 2024
(full consideration)
&
November 25, 2024
(closing)

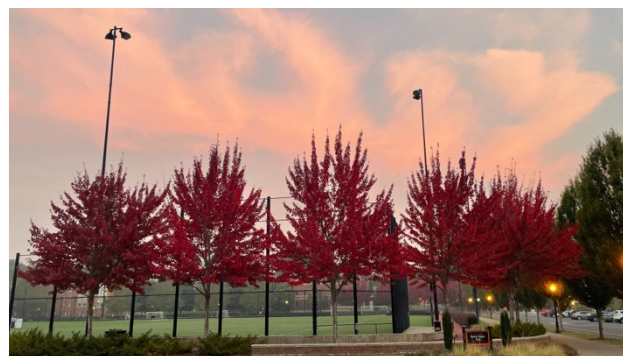

Be part of our team

Make a meaningful difference in Oregon's communities. OSU Forestry & Natural Resources Extension is recruiting energetic, creative, and collaborative individuals committed to sustaining natural resources and strengthening communities and economies. Our team fosters and operates within a strong workplace culture of collaborative planning, group projects, and mutual support. We share a commitment to promote and enhance diversity and contribute to a welcoming, inclusive, and respectful work culture.

At OSU, find a career, not just a paycheck

- PEBB benefits including medical, dental, & vision
- Retirement/pension plans
- Vacation leave (up to 180 hours per year)
- Sick leave and federal/state holidays
- Tuition reduction for eligible employees
- Professional development opportunities
- Salary range: $70-80k/year
- More info about benefits: <https://hr.oregonstate.edu/benefits/prospective-employee>

View full descriptions and apply through the OSU Jobs site:

<https://jobs.oregonstate.edu/postings/160721>

Oregon State University

